Excellent reference book for the Rocky Mountain DyerBy Kimberly AronstamMy friend showed me this book and I went right home and found myself a copy here. It is an incredible amount of information. It covers everything you could possibly need to know to dye naturally with local plants. Each page has a sketched picture of the plant, information about the plant, how to harvest the necessary parts of the plant, and what color it will dye your wool based (or other protein based fiber) depending on the type of mordant you use. This book truly is a treasure and a necessary resource for all dyers local to the Rocky Mountains.
