As costs continue to rise and as persons seek to become more self sufficient, the task of making homemade soaps has become more than a hobby for many persons. It may have started out as something for the home, but then may have grown into a small business as persons in the community opt to buy those soaps. "Soap Making Guide for the Novice" helps the reader to learn what the process of homemade soap making entails and how someone can get started with the process. The process of soap making is not difficult. It takes a bit of planning, having the right ingredients and a lot of dedication to the task. It can not only be a hobby, but can become a way to earn additional income in the long run.

About the Author Ashley Williams always had issues with using the commercially produced soaps. Ever since she was a child her parents always had to carry her to the doctor as she had allergic reactions to the ingredients in the soap. Unfortunately, this is something that she carried into adulthood. She had extremely sensitive skin and had to keep changing the soaps that were recommended for her to use. When Ashley had just about had it, her friend suggested that she simply make her own soaps. She could use what she wanted in it and of course make soaps that would not irritate her skin. She got her research done and with the help of a professional soap maker made her first batch of homemade soaps suited for her skin. Suffice it to say that she has had no problems since then and has helped many to make their own soaps since then.
