In the craft business, it's not that easy to price your product. Actually I'm trying to find a solution on how to price my craft product cause I wouldn't know how much papers/adhesive/ink etc that I've used to be able to calculate the real cost. If it's a rough gauge, I might have over counted or under counted. Though it teaches stuff like what type of market there is; how not to over price nor underprice; going around for interview etc, I'm still stuck at my costing which makes me feel disappointed. But overall, if you want to know some marketing strategy or like some stories behind some successful crafters, this book will be able to entertain your needs. This book is full of good tips, ideas, opinions etc. on how to start a craft business. She's teaching you and you learn from her mistakes and avoid them. I must admit, it gets you pumped up to start a craft business! I have purchased 3 of her other books and enjoy every single one of them. I like the fact that even though she's European based, she gives all the information for the US.
